The Welsh Assembly to kill badgers

Elin Jones AM has agreed to a badger cull as part of a pilot scheme.

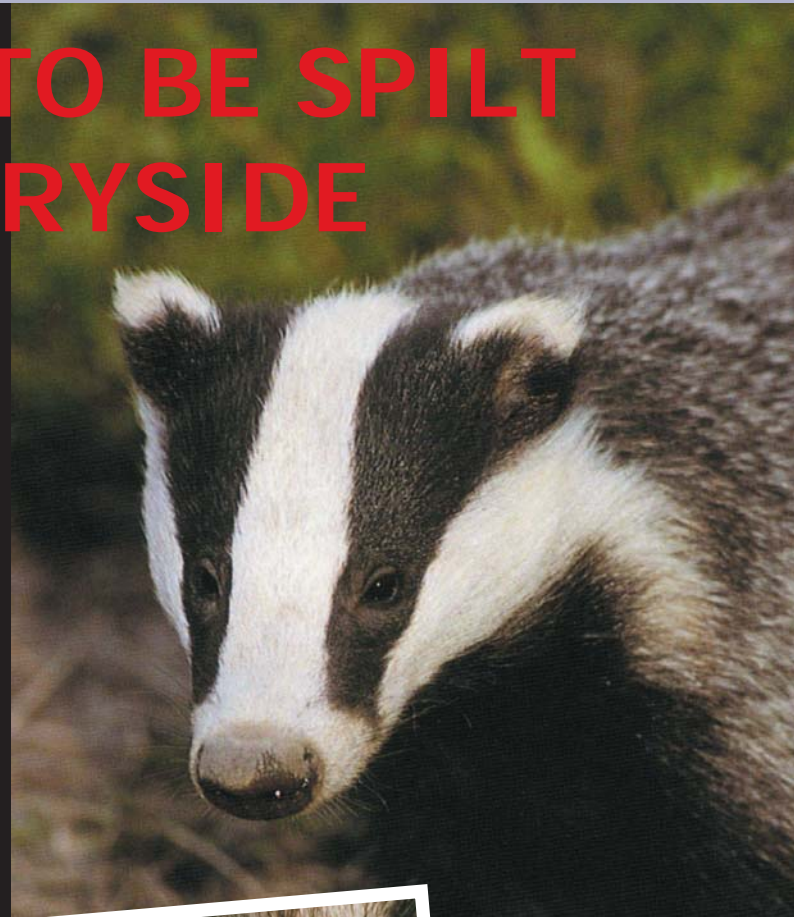

This is despite sound science that proves that culling of badgers plays no part in the control of Bovine TB in cattle. Yet again they are to be used as a scapegoat to appease certain farmers although as yet the location has not been identified.

Earlier this year Hilary Benn stood his ground and refused to consider badger culling in England.

Professor John Bourne, chairman of the Independent Scientific Group, said that he is reassured that Hillary Benn has taken the scientific route rather than the emotive one. He went on to say, "Now farmers will realise the strength of the science and will recognise that culling has no part to play. They should now objectively, alongside government, consider the cattle control elements that we all know are absolutely essential as outlined in our report."

Pam nad yw'r Cynylliad Cymru yn gwrando?

Why is the Welsh Assembly not listening?

By whatever means - are you prepared to see badgers
pointlessly killed?
